How to achieve unlimited, safe, clean and low-cost energy by laser- or beam-driven inertial nuclear fusion has preoccupied all winners of the Edward Teller Medal since its inception in 1991. This book presents their findings, meeting discussions, and personal insights from Edward Teller himself. Expect discussion of important advances anticipated in the future such as multi-billion dollar fusion research projects (NIF), and new schemes such as the petawatt-picosecond laser-plasma interactions evoking new physics and coupling mechanisms. For the first time, laser technology of the new century is providing the very short and extremely intense energetic pulses needed for fusion energy from next generation power stations, which produce energy at several times lower cost than any other source. The long-sought dream to directly ignite frozen heavy hydrogen for controlled use is close to being realized. Years of research on plasmas and lasers carried out worldwide in highly sophisticated experiments is summarized. The coverage begins with the work of John Nuckolls and Nobel Laureate Nikolai Basov and leads to the new scheme of plasma block acceleration via the nonlinear ponderomotive force. Edward Teller Lectures is one of the first guides to these new developments. Contents: Comments on the History and Prospects for Inertial Confinement Fusion (N G Basov)Laser Fusion Research in 30 Years: Lecture of Edward Teller Awardee (C Yamanaka)New Basic Physics Derived from Laser Plasma Interaction (H Hora)The Edward Teller Medal Lecture: The Evolution Toward Indirect Drive and Two Decades of Progress Toward ICF Ignition and Burn (J D Lindl)Views on Inertial Fusion Energy Development (S Nakai)Path to Ignition: US Indirect Target Physics (M Cray & E M Campbell)1995 Edward Teller Lecture: Patience and Optimism (G H Miley)The Edward Teller Medal Lecture: High Intensity Lasers and the Road to Ignition (M H Key)Prospects for High-Grain, High Yield NIF Targets Driven by 2? (Green) Light (L J Suter et al.)Hydrodynamic Instability, Integrated Code, Laboratory Astrophysics and Astrophysics (H Takabe)and other papers Readership: Upper-level undergraduates, academics, researchers, and industrialists in plasma and laser physics. Key Features:Broad, understandable summaries by leading expertsUnique review of inexhaustive, clean, safe and low-cost energy production for the futureDiscussion of very short laser pulses, 1,000 times more powerful than all the power stations on earthKeywords:Laser Pulses;Plasmas of High Density and Temperature;Fusion Energy;New Physics;Nonlinear Phenomena;Relativistic Effects;Laser-Plasma InteractionReviews:"... the presentation of inertial presented in this book is most valuable for all who are actively engaged in this field or follow it with great interest ..."Laser and Particle Beams

The objects of the American Meteorological Society are "the development and dissemination of knowledge of meteorology in all its phases and applications, and the advancement of its professional ideals." The organization of the Society took place in affiliation with the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Saint Louis, Missouri, December 29, 1919, and its incorporation, at Washington, D. C., January 21, 1920. The work of the Society is carried on by the Bulletin, the Journal, and Meteorological Monographs, by papers and discussions at meetings of the Society, through the offices of the Secretary and the Executive Secretary, and by correspondence. All of the Americas are represented in the membership of the Society as well as many foreign countries
